

Petro Research & Training Institute

Petro Research and Training Institute (PRTI) is a research and training institute of Oil and Gas Development Company Limited (OGDCL). Recognizing the fact that only through the acquisition of state-of-the-art petroleum technology, OGDCL would be able to fulfill its mandate of achieving self sufficiency in Oil and Gas for Pakistan, the Oil and Gas Training Institute was established in Islamabad in 1979. After its merger with Geological & Reservoir Laboratories (G&R Labs in 2005), the institute was rename as Petro Research & Training Institute (PRTI).

Roles and Functions of PRTI

In consistency with the growing needs of training in Pakistan's petroleum sector, this premier institute has also expanded and earned recognition. At present following roles and functions are being performed by PTRI:

- ✚ Provision of basic training to petroleum industry graduates and technicians, enabling their career induction;
- ✚ Refresher and advanced training for experienced professionals in all three streams of petroleum industry in general and upstream in particular;
- ✚ In-house technology update seminar, inviting outstanding professionals/expertise. To facilitate absorption of state-of- the-art techniques;
- ✚ Organizing and implementing summer internship & field attachment programs for students of various universities and institutes;
- ✚ Running of technical schools at Quetta & Karak
